Leadership Greensboro Strives to Restore the Public's Trust in the Financial and Government Sector

June 15, 2010 – (Greensboro, NC) – In the midst of one of the most devastating recessions since the Great Depression, distrust is all around us. A lack of trust in government, financial institutions, Wall Street, and even the company you work for can be detrimental to your community's ability to pull out of the recession and begin the recovery process.

On Friday, June 18th, Leadership Greensboro will host a panel of local experts to discuss methods of overcoming trust issues, including ways to build internal and external trust in an organization and telling the difference between trustworthy and untrustworthy partners. Panelists include Chris Musselwhite, President of Discovery Learning; Joan Evans, Chief Learning Officer at Moses Cone Hospital; Corliss McGinty of Soft Solutions; and Dennis Stearns, President of Stearns Financial.

"Greensboro has begun to bounce back from the recession, but we still have a long way to go," commented Joyce Gorham-Worsley, Vice President of Leadership Development at the Greensboro Chamber of Commerce. "This forum will help rebuild the public's confidence and hopefully help us move forward."

The program will be held at the Greensboro Chamber of Commerce, 342 N. Elm Street, Greensboro on Friday, June 18th from 11:30 AM until 1:30 PM. Registration costs $15.00 per person and includes lunch. Participants can register online at www.greensborochamber.com.
